War Spreads Over Europe

Local Rotarians Attend Lethbridge Convention

Because nearly all local Rotarians were in attendance at a very brief resume for those not in Rotary who might be interested in what our program was.

Several local Rotarians were in attendance Sunday night at the musical programme and get-together that was held, and from the reports this programme was decidedly enjoyable to all. The Lethbridge Male Choir, directed by Terry Horne rendered a number of fine selections, and Terry Horne rendered several fine solos. After the official programme was finished, Ralph Johnson of Lethbridge, on an electric organ delighted the crowd with organ music, and he and Tom Shaw of Calgary joined in a number of piano and organ duets.

Monday morning the convention was officially opened by speeches of welcome from Lieutenant Governor J. C. Bowen for the Province and Mayor D. H. Elton for the City of Lethbridge, and the meetings were under way. The remainder of Monday and Tuesday forenoon, speeches on different phases of Rotary were delivered by speakers from Toronto on the east to Vancouver on the West, and all were timely and thoroughly enjoyed. Charles Cadwallader, (we will pronounce this for you if you have any trouble), representing Rotary International was heard with interest on several occasions, in talks ringing with sincerity and full of information. During the Conference Fred E. Osborne of Calgary, past Mayor of the City, was nominated for District Governor for the coming year and was accepted with loud and prolonged applause.

Two luncheons were held Monday noon, one for the ladies and one for the Rotates. At the former gathering, with nearly 150 present, Raymond Club furnished the entertainment when the Misses Myra Dahl and Jeannine Wilde also Tommy Roberts rendered solos, all accompanied by Mrs. Emma Dahl. This was Raymond's contribution to the program of the Conference. A banquet was held Monday evening and the 400 assembled listened to an informal "The Tragic Thirties" which mative address by Dr. Lincoln brought back many painful memories, and traced the gradual spread of war to its present world wide state. Not pleasant, as the speaker stated, but very instructive.

A joint luncheon Tuesday noon was addressed by Charles Cadwallader, who spoke of "Rotary Around The World" and introduced the listeners to the universal friendship and understanding accompanying membership in Rotary. At the joint banquet Tuesday evening, Frank Wilson of Vancouver, formerly of Regina was the speaker, and gave a very entertaining talk. All the luncheons were well provided with entertainment from the various Clubs and guest artists and all had an enjoyable time.

The ladies were entertained, while the Rotates were in session at house parties and teas, so that all had a most enjoyable time and the entire Conference, thanks to the Lethbridge fellows and their wives, was a complete success.

C J O C JAMBOREE

The Jamboree presented by the CJOOC entertainers last night was well received and greatly enjoyed by those present. It happened that it came right at the height of the busy season and the crowd was small. Delayed by recent rains, and the cropping season already late, farmers were decidedly busy too busy in fact to even consider sacrificing an hour or so for this entertainment.

The musical numbers by the Caldwell sisters and the CJOOC staff as well as Anne Leishman were all greatly enjoyed as were the comedy skits and the readings, etc. Under the supervision of the Stake Primary, refreshments were sold to those attending, and the dance at the conclusion, with music by The Ambassadors, was greatly enjoyed by all present.

NEWS NOTES

Hope is the yeast in the bread of life.

Early planted garden stuff is poking through now and radishes and lettuce will soon be on the tables. Moisture conditions are just right and vegetation will make very rapid growth if present warm weather continues.

John B. Wood of West Salisbury, east of Edmonton, was instantly killed and his wife injured Monday night when lightning struck their home completely wrecking it in one of the worst electric storms experienced for a long time so early in the season. Only rain fell in Southern Alberta.

TAKES TO AIR LANES

Doris Kenyon, motion picture musical comedy and concert star, has now taken radio work. She is playing the lead in a new serial drama, "Crossroads."

CATERS TO TOURISTS

Merchants and others catering to the tourist trade who will accept United States currency will be permitted to display an official card provided by the Foreign Exchange Control Board.

The card, bearing the crest of the Dominion of Canada, will be available in two sizes: 11x14 inches and 5 1/2 x 7 inches. The larger card is suitable for window display. Both will carry the same legend: "United States currency is accepted here at the official premium set by the Foreign Exchange Control Board."

Hitler attacked Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg on Thursday in an endeavor to overrun France and bombed channel ports and air bases in France and Britain. Using the favorite excuse of armed protection for these countries against Britain he ordered the attack and was met with stubborn resistance on all fronts. The air forces of Britain and France met the attack of German planes and shot many of them down.

It looks more and more as if the Allies will be forced to abandon any humanitarian war and talk to Nazi Germany with death and destruction, apparently the only language these despoilers of life and property can understand. If Chamberlain is to be criticized for his policy of patience and endeavor to avoid the sacrifice of needless lives, it must be said that the effort was praiseworthy though possibly not wise. Now, it looks like nothing but meeting force with force and trying to out-guess Europe's war lord will have any influence on the tide of events.

Latest reports state that Holland has brought down over 70 Nazi planes and blown up an armored train; and that the Belgium army is well entrenched but has not made contact with the Nazi war machine as yet.

Baseball League Organized

The Southern Alberta Baseball league was organized at a meeting held here Sunday with the following executive:

President—Paul Moreland.
1st Vice—Ryerson Christie.
2nd Vice—M. Raye Wolf.
Sec. Treas.—Murray Holt.
Representatives were present from New Dayton, Magrath, Spring Coulee, Cardston, and Raymond and all these towns entered a team. No schedule will be drawn up until after May 15th to give other teams a chance to enter, after which date the league will start its series of games.

Twenty members and ten visitors were present including Mrs. Compton of Calgary, a former member of the Club. Mrs. Madill of Foremost and Mrs. Gilmore of Lacombe. A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by all.

A very interesting meeting was held in the 2nd Ward Church Sunday evening when Elder N. J. Anderson of Lethbridge, who returned a few months ago from Hawaii, spoke on his experiences and showed a great many motion pictures of scenes and life on the islands. The meeting lasted until 9:30.

NEW BOOKS AT LIBRARY

Support the "Y" Big Dance

Don't forget the Dance Saturday night in aid of the Y.M.C.A. drive for funds to carry on their overseas work. This is one event where you do not have to be present in order to assist. Buy your ticket, and then if you can't go forget about it. But BE SURE and buy your ticket.

Everyone knows of the splendid service rendered by the Y.M.C.A. for the comfort of the Canadian boys in training and in service in the present war. The essentials of their requirements are well looked after by the Government, but the added niceties, which we all enjoy, and which means so much to the boys in khaki, are provided largely by the Y.M.C.A. which organization has assumed this task.

In donating to this cause, you are assisting, just the same as you assisted with your Red Cross donation. You can't follow your contribution to know exactly who it helps, but you may be assured that some of the Canadians will be grateful and will feel that being in the service is not so bad when he is remembered by the folks at home with some of the nice nacks of life.

Everything in connection with Saturday night's dance is donated, the hall, music and so on, so that the committee should have some satisfaction in feeling that those who can are quite willing to assist in such a fine cause; now Mr. John Citizen, it's up to you to put it over.

Everybody Busy as Cropping is Pushed

OUR SUMMER SPORTS

Crowded out of last week's issue

Shall we Golf this Summer?

Stated by those who have played a great deal of golf on a number of first rate courses, Raymond has the finest potential course of all Southern Alberta on and around Temple Hill. There are just enough hazards in the sand and gravel to really give the players an pits and broken ground there interesting time. Two or three times considerable money has been spent by golfers here to build up this course for their enjoyment. Lack of co-operation amongst the lovers of the game, at times a little lack of attention on the part of the caretaker, and always an insatiable desire on the part of our youth, has resulted in expensive damage to the greens and the clubhouse and resultant feeling of discouragement and bitterness on the part of those trying to build up the course.

Shall we golf this Summer? A perennial question in Raymond. Again this spring, an organization has been set up to look into the matter. Could our Boy Scouts encourage the move by assuring the sponsors that they will lend their moral support in seeing that no damage is done to the course or the Club house. This would help a lot. A good golf course becomes quite a civic attraction and throughout the summer in the tournaments and so on that are played, brings in a great many people. From our observations the old never get to old to play, and there are youngsters coming all the time anxious for a swing with the mashie or iron. There is another side it is clean whole some recreation, out in God's great open spaces, and companionship with nature always helps humanity. There are many reasons why golfing should be encouraged and we would like to see it go on during each summer. Let us lend our support to the movement, and as parents let us endeavor to influence the youth to respect property rights over the course, sufficiently not to destroy the greens or damage the Clubhouse, both of which are essential to successful and enjoyable golf.

What about Baseball? Last summer Raymond had a good baseball team, and played some fine games. What shall we do this year? The executive get quite discouraged at the very slim gates they have at local games. It appears that our summer yen or entertainment does not turn to baseball as it does in many towns in Southern Alberta. Maybe we ought to try and convert ourselves to attend ing the games to support the team whether we like the game as much as we ought to or not. The boys enjoy playing, it is fine exercise, body building and healthful, but they like to play also to play a good gallery of fans; a crowd who will yell their head off for the home town, and get the goat of the visitors. As the team is lined up for the summer, we hope that those who can play, will play, and that all of us who are able to help, will lend whatever support we can to boost the Baseball season in Raymond.

A Public Tennis Court or Not?

A few years ago, through in

From sun to sun and through the night on many farms, the tractor is put putting away seeding into the soft brown earth the season's crop of grain and beets. Delayed by rains, which to date have been just right in moisture content, the spring cropping season is fully under way with a rush es on Broadway are deserted and the proverbial loafing place almost except by attendants as this work is pushed.

Only estimates can be made, but by Saturday night of this week 80 p.c. of the beets and possibly 65 p.c. of the grain should be seeded over the district. It sounds almost fantastic compared to what was done even 1 years ago, but when one sees a field being worked, seeded and dragged in one operation we must realize that acreage goes in pretty fast, and may we say decidedly well. It was only a few years ago that 17 acres a day for drillman was a big days work, and this required a good man and four top grade horses. Other outfits had preceded the drill with the disc, duckfoot cultivator or some thing to prepare the seed bed. Today the disc is hooked first then the drill and then the harrow, packer or dray, the engine is started, on some with a crank and others a foot starter, and away we go, and if we don't make from 50 to 75 acres a day it has been a very poor day. So, where we used to measure a cropping season by weeks, now we measure it by days or even hours.

Seed is going in under almost ideal conditions. The ground is full of moisture, fields have worked up wonderfully well, and with the warm weather and sunshine fields should sprout and come through quickly with a wonderful stand. Alfalfa fields also look fine.

Gardens are being planted now and the homes in town are showing the effects of planning up, planting of flowers, lawns, bulbs, trees and what not. It seems as natural to till and plant as it is for cattle to shed their long hairs when spring comes. We just do it and love it.

Geo. Thompson has started work on the foundation of his new home he is going to build on his lot in the east part of town.

Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Roberts spent the night in their car at Welling Monday night, return ing from the Rotary Convention in Lethbridge. A wire had broken and as fast as new fuses were put in they would blow out. They waited for daylight and arrived home at 4:30 a.m.

dividual initiative and the co-operation of the Town Council we had two or three pretty good tennis courts in the Skating Rink enclosure, and they apparently drew a large number of players. More recently, what tennis has been played has been on the one or two private courts in town. Could we revive interest in this sport enough to have a civic court or two and possibly a tournament during the summer. It's pleasant and beneficial. Let's try.

MOTHER'S DAY

Sunday is Mother's Day. That day we pay tribute to the world's noblest character. We are not forgetting the Almighty who planned the universe, nor are we forgetting the Son who was the Superintendent in the creation. We are not unmindful of these great beings, but undoubtedly, if we could get the message of those mighty characters, they, like Lincoln would say "All that I am or ever hope to be, I owe to my angel mother." So, we repeat again, we pay tribute Sunday to the world's noblest character, when we commemorate Mother's Day.

Puny indeed is any effort of tongue or pen to express an appreciation for Mother. From the moment of our birth until we are laid away in the grave we are watched over, nurtured and spoiled by our own mother and then by the mother of our children. Our characters, moulded unconsciously, perhaps, but moulded about 95 per cent, just the same, by Mother. When we hear our first word it is because Mother has coached us, our first prayer is learned at Mother's knee. When we are restless at night Mother gets up to see what is the matter. The good old Dad slumbers. Like the crucifixion of theavior when this mother was at the Cross and first the Tomb, so it is with all us.

We could continue on for pages, and still not say much at would even begin to express our appreciation for Mother. Bestowing the most selfish service on her child that is possible, going down into the valley of death to give us birth, ready at any time to give her life to save in the eternal worlds. May we ours, nursing us through sick spells for weeks and months at a time, never losing faith in us, though the whole world turn against us and deride us, and glorying more than any other person in our achievements, if we make any sharing her love with the man or woman who wins our love, and sending with us that same undivided love and affection when we leave the home roost to start for ourselves, and then repeating again that love and labor when we have children of our own for "Granny" to pet and spoil when we get to large for this, such is the embodiment of mother love, the natural desire planted in the hearts of all women, and a desire that finds its highest achievement in the rearing of a good and noble family. Such is mother, and like Stevenson said "Glad did I live and gladly die, And I lay me down with a will."

With no other saving grace than the life of sacrifice they live for us, they are worthy of the highest and best in the eternal worlds. May we as their sons and daughters resolve today, away to add further glory to their glory, and to win our own place by her side by a life of service, nobility and honesty in every act of our life.

"SERVICE ABOVE SELF"

Those three words, coupled with "He profits most who serves best" expressed the spirit of Rotary, and the truth behind these words were well exemplified in the recent Rotary Convention. Here we met and became really acquainted with men, who but for Rotary, would have remained just a name.

Joe, Caulder came from Toronto to talk to us. Joe could have made a million or ten million and he would remain just a name. He has been an active figure in Rotary for years, and to hundreds and thousands of Rotarians across Canada, Joe is known as a pri-nee of a fellow, a man who appreciates the opportunity to serve and friend to all who wear the Rotary badge. He never is referred to as Mr. Caulder, in Rotary, just Joe. The same is true of Chas. Cadwallader, for nearly three years he and his wife have travelled for Rotary. They have their expenses paid, but their time is entirely donated. A poor man couldn't do it, but Charlie has forsaken the making of money for the present at least to serve his fellow Rotarians. To those outside Rotary he is probably Mr. Cadwallader and possibly is honored, respected, and maybe feared. In Rotary he's just Charlie, and he rubs shoulders and sits with Tom, Dick and Harry and enjoys it. Ever since Rotary in Alberta was organized, District Governors have been elected each year who have given gladly and freely at least half the time of that year to their fellow Rotarians, and they all say they enjoyed it, and so in Alberta we have Norris Stoltze known to most other Albertans as a top business man, G. Fred McNally, Deputy Minister of Education, Oliver McIntyre, Edmonton, and several others who are just Norris, Fred and Oliver to the more than 1700 Rotarians in the district, but the work they have accomplished, the friendships they have made and the associations that have been enjoyed will never be forgotten. This is the true spirit of Rotary.

Anyone can see from this, that if a brotherhood of good will and understanding, whether Rotary or what it was called could be founded, to operate on a platform of "Service Above Self" and its membership could be wide enough, and its aims and objects well enough understood, there would be no wars nor international conflicts, because the spirit of understanding would find a solution to all our troubles. The courts would go begging for business; if ethics as broad and unselfish as these were practised, because men would not seek to take advantage, they would not become involved in fights and brawls, because through service to each other they would have a broader horizon. It is significant that in nearly every nation where the spirit of totalitarianism prevails, Rotary Clubs and their functions have been banned. The loss suffered by such nations because of this is above price. It dries up the great source of better understanding, but they are banned, possibly because there is too much freedom of thought on the part of members and to much respect and charity for men and women of other nations to suit the likes of the dictators who want to be all powerful. Not that everyone should be long to Rotary, nor because Rotary wants to delve into politics or any kind of leadership, which is all contrary to Rotary ethics, but because the spirit of service above self is the salvation of present misunderstandings and wars, the spirit needs to be disseminated throughout the entire world to help us to a better understanding of each other not only nationally but internationally.

When the Master said "Let him who would be greatest among you be your minister", he enunciated a cardinal truth in our quest for happiness, contentment and true greatness. Too many of us miss the opportunity to serve, and when we do, our light begins to go out and our soul begins to dwarf. We should be thankful for opportunity to serve, and we should be thankful for a social and economic set up that encourages this service. Though a man die poor, if he has served unselfishly and well in the interests of a better world and a better community, he is still rich and will never be forgotten.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE ACQUISITION ORDER

IMPORTANT NOTICE

As announced by the Minister of Finance, the Foreign Exchange Acquisition Order, 1940, has been enacted by Order-in-Council under the authority of the War Measures Act.

Unless exempted by the Order, every resident of Canada who, on May 1st, 1940, has any foreign currency in his possession, ownership or control, whether in Canada or outside Canada, is required forthwith to sell such foreign currency to an Authorized Dealer (i.e. a branch of a chartered bank) for payment in Canadian dollars at the official buying rate of the Foreign Exchange Control Board.

"Foreign currency", for the purposes of the Order, means any currency (excluding coin) other than Canadian currency and includes bank notes, postal notes, money orders, cheques, travellers' cheques, prepaid letters of credit, bank drafts and other similar instruments payable in any currency other than Canadian currency, and also includes any amount in foreign currency of which a resident has a right to obtain payment by reason of a deposit, credit or balance of any kind at or with a bank, savings bank, trust company, loan company, stockbroker, investment dealer or other similar depository.

The Order does not require the sale of any foreign securities.

The Order does not affect any foreign currency, deposit or securities of any non-resident of Canada and for greater certainty the Order expressly declares that a non-resident visiting Canada for business or pleasure for a period or periods not exceeding six months in the year continues to be a non-resident for the purposes of the Order unless such person enters or has entered Canada with the intention of becoming a permanent resident.

No resident is required to sell any foreign currency if he satisfies the Foreign Exchange Control Board that he held such foreign currency on May 1st, 1940, solely as trustee or agent for a non-resident and that the non-resident's interest therein had not been acquired from a resident since September 15th, 1939, except in a manner approved by the Board.

Under certain conditions stipulated in Section 1 (b) of the Order, a resident who is not a Canadian citizen may be granted exemption, but only after application for exemption is approved by the Board.

No life insurance company incorporated in Canada is required by the Order to sell any foreign currency which it needs for the purpose of carrying on its business outside Canada.

Further particulars may be obtained from branches of chartered banks. Any resident who has any foreign currency in his possession, ownership or control on May 1st, 1940, regardless of amount, should consult his bank at once in order to ascertain the extent to which he is affected by the Order.

HEARTS WALKING

Mrs. Harry Pugh Smith

SYNOPSIS

Janet Phillips finds herself left out of things when her weather friends in Bay City come home from their finishing schools and colleges. Priscilla Leigh—at the moment interested in Janet's old friend Gordon Key—is making herself disagreeable. Jim Phillips, Janet's brother, has just met redheaded, wealthy, Helen Sanders, through pampered Howard Leigh. Jim is snubbing as golf pro for the summer and offers to give Miss Sanders lessons. Although he doesn't like her, he is fascinated. Meanwhile, Janet has returned home from her sister Berenice's apartment wondering if, after all, love means little and money means everything. She complains of their lack of funds to her mother, pointing out Mrs. Jas. Leigh's and "How she has got on!"

It depends on what you want out of life," said Anne. "She was never the least in love with Henry. She was supposed to be quite wild about a young man who worked in her father's butcher shop. I think he's still working in somebody's butcher shop, although I doubt if Jennie Leigh has thought of him in years."

"There you are," muttered Janet, recalling Berenice. "Love doesn't last. In a year or so it doesn't matter whether you married for love or not, because if you did, by then all the thrill has gone out like a light."

"The thrill didn't go out," said her mother with a catch in her voice.

Janet drew a long breath as if she had been granted a reprieve. "It didn't for you did it?" she asked unsteadily.

"Never."

Anne laid her hand over her daughter's and Janet clung to it. "Thanks for being you," she whispered.

There were tears on her cheeks. Something has struck at her emotional roots; thought Anne and had a fierce desire to gather Janet into her arms and protect her from everything which menaced her.

CHAPTER VI

"How about a little food for the man of the house," shouted Jim, flinging open the front door.

Anne was astonished to find that it was dark. "Heavens," she cried, starting to her feet, "we should all be starved!"

However, no one betrayed an appetite although there was a delicious aspic salad and a plate of cold roast beef and baked potatoes which Janet had scooped ed out and mashed and then set back in their shells at the last minute to brown with paprika and cheese. Jim usually ate as it his long, gaunt body were hollow, but not on this occasion.

"I met Howard's latest girl friend this afternoon," he announced abruptly.

"Helen Sanders?" inquired Janet.

Her brother nodded. Anne looked at him quickly. Jim was red clear down inside the collar of his soft blue shirt.

"Priscilla says that Helen is the prettiest girl and the worst snob that ever lived," remarked Janet.

"She's a spoiled brat who needs a good going over, with a bundle of sticks," muttered Jim, but he still did not meet Anne's eyes.

"Hi, Jim!" exclaimed a small piping voice from the direction of the rear porch. "Come and get me!"

"You bet!" cried Jim.

The interruption ended a disagreeable tension. Anne detected relief in Jim's face as if he was glad of an excuse to leap up from the table and from the disturbing topic of Miss Helen Sanders.

He got down on all fours and when with some assistance Danny mounted, his steed proceeded to buck and cavort around the dining table to Danny's vast delight. He was hiccupping with laughter and Jim had about run out of breath when Danny's mother came to the rescue.

"I don't need to ask if my son is here as usual, making a nuisance of himself. You can hear him down the block," said Cathy Wood in her slow slurred voice.

Jim picked up Danny and swung him high into the air. "Tell your old lady, Sonny, that the only thing we'd like better is twins just like you."

Janet was gazing curiously at Cathy. It was strange to think of Cathy as a mother. She was only twenty. Sometimes Cathy looked like a mere child. She had been left an orphan when she was fifteen. She had, she said, slept on park benches and washed dishes in cheap restaurants before she secured a place in the chorus of a third rate road show. The company made brief stands on what the profession labels the tank circuit.

"You remember the theatrical couple in the play 'Lightning'?" asked Cathy. "The ones who got married in Peoria and it rained? Something like that happened to Danny's father and me. He was a chorus man and neither of us had any folks and it snowed all that week and everybody was blue. It was anything for a change."

They were married and the company gave them a wedding supper on the stage after the show. Dan was a good kid, but he was not strong and he was never much of a dancer. When business grew worse he would undoubtedly have been let out except that by that time Cathy was expecting a baby and the manager felt sorry for both of them.

"I worked up to the last two weeks because we needed the money for the hospital bill," Cathy explained. "Of course the company had to go on, to the next stand. Danny cried when he left me. Maybe he had a hunch. But he went because his job looked like the most important thing on earth to us right then. He wrote me every day to hurry and get well. He said he was dying to see his son. I didn't know he was actually dying until I got the telegram."

"You see, he caught a heavy cold. He should have been in the hospital himself. But he went on dancing every night in order to send me the money. He went on even after he was delirious. He was trying to do a cartwheel when he fainted. They carried him off. It was pneumonia and he hadn't a chance."

For six months Cathy had been dancing in the floor show at the local night club. The salary was not large, but she did not have to go to work until eight in the evening and she was finished shortly after twelve. She had a room in the flat across the hall with an old German couple. Grandma Bauer was glad to keep an eye on Danny when his mother was away. Cathy paid extra for this service and for kitchen privileges.

"She's such a game kid," thought Jim now, staring at her over Danny's golden head. "Come on, Sonny, time for bed," warned Cathy.

"Want me to carry you over and put you in your crib, Sonny?" suggested Jim gently.

Danny snuggled his cheek against Jim. "Yes, please."

"I'll drive you down to the club, Cathy," Jim went on.

Anne saw the light in Cathy's violet eyes before she remembered to veil them with her short black lashes. "I don't want to put you to any trouble, Jim," she said softly.

"No trouble," said Jim. "It's right on the way to the office."

"I forgot," Jim interrupted Janet as he turned toward the door. "You're supposed to take me to the dance tonight."

Jim stopped short. "The heck

I am! What's happened to that boy friend of yours? We never used to be able to step for him around this place."

Anne caught her breath. Janet glanced at her defiantly, and then at Jim. "Gordon broke a date with me for Priscilla, if you want to know, but you need not take me to the dance. I'll live without it."

Jim departed carrying Danny whose small head was drooping with fatigue. However, before Jim left to drive Cathy over to the night club he came out upon the back porch which was separated from his own merely by the landing of the rear staircase, and called out to Janet.

"I'll be back in time to doll up for the dance, Jan, old thing. Get my white flannels out, there's a good girl, and see if you can locate a decent shirt for me."

Jim Phillips, that same evening, stood outside one of the wide French doors opening off the Country Club lounge onto a screened veranda. From his point of vantage he could observe without being observed. He tried to fasten his gaze elsewhere but he was unable to turn it from the scintillating person of Miss Helen Sanders. Howard Leigh was dancing only with Miss Sanders.

Bee-Hive Girls Day Of Swarm---A Big Success

Gay, colorful and interesting described the Silver Jubilee Day of Swarm and Fun Fest, held May 4th at Stirling.

The Jubilee song was followed by Bee-Hive flashes of 1915 then and now. This was in form of pictures contrasting the styles, methods of cell filling and even materials used by Red Cross and first aid, and was ably presented by girls of the Stirling Ward under the supervision of Delight Procter. The three Procter sisters furnished appropriate songs for each picture.

Ursula Schneider of Bernice Weaver's group, of the Raymond 2nd Ward, won highest honors in her years work and was crowned Queen of the Fun Fest.

Girls of Magrath 2nd Ward led by Lorelle Gurney gave a dance in colorful Swiss Costumes. The Raymond 2nd as Hungarians gave a pleasing interpretation of Hungarian Grief Dance, this was directed by Maurine Palmer. An original song composed by Zelpha Dow for Jubilee year was sung by Builders of the Magrath 2nd Ward.

HE MAY HAVE BEEN RIGHT

The following story comes from France:

Teacher, somewhat irritable, to the dance of the class: "Tomorrow I will ask you just one question. If you happen to answer that correctly, I will not ask you another."

"Thank you, sir," said Henri. "How many hairs have you on your head?" inquired the teacher, noting with satisfaction the grins of the rest of the boys.

Young Henri promptly replied: "319,847, sir."

"How do you know that?" asked the teacher.

"But that would be a second question, sir," said Henri, meekly.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hyde on Thursday May 9th a baby girl at the Galt Hospital. Mother and daughter are doing fine.

The naval officer was showing an old lady round his ship when eight bells sounded.

"I'll have to go now," he said. "It's my watch below."

"Goodness," gasped the old lady. "Fancy your watch striking as loud as that!"

Hive theme dance, taught by Mildred Boyson was pleasingly presented by girls from both Raymond wards.

Chorus by Welling, "Bee a Humming" directed by Athea Peterson; also "Twilight Shadows" led by Marie O'Brien and sung by Raymond 2nd Ward. "I Want to Be Happy" dance brought heartiest applause. It was prepared by Bertha Bennett and Jean Bingham of the Magrath 1st Ward, and the girls were in costumes of all nations, it was very gay and happy.

Under Zelda Woolley's able direction were the games and March of the Nations. The latter bringing out ideas of sisterhood of Bee-Hive girls in all Nations. Dutch, Japanese, Irish, Spanish, Chinese, Hungarian, Scotch, Norwegian, Swiss and Canadians were well represented in gay and colorful array.

Fres. Fanny Walker honored all Bee-Keepers present, and among those deserving special mention were Mrs. Coffin, Stirling, first Bee Keeper of 1915, Lauretta Dahl Raymond 2nd who still had her chain won 20 years ago, Luella Brandley five years who had the largest number of girls present still in active service; and Delight Procter, Millie Dyson, Zelda Woolley and M. W. Boyson who had served, five, six seven and eleven years, respectively.

Under Athea Peterson's direction and assisted by Stirling as special hostesses the lunch was extremely satisfying to the 170 girls, officers and Parents present. We especially appreciate President's Taylor, Zemp Nelson and Peterson of the Y.W.M.C.A. and one member of the Bishopric C. R. Wing of the Raymond 1st Ward.

All in all the Silver Jubilee Day of Swarm will be long remembered by those present.
